About the LRPC

Latino Research & Policy Center
colorado school of public health

The Colorado School of Public Health's Latino Research & Policy Center has the vision of academically empowering students in Latino health and health policy by developing educational and training programs in the area of public health. Our goals are straightforward: to work together with students to reduce the disparities that affect Latino communities; to increase collaborative partnerships with community-based organizations, academic institutions, and state/city elected officials; and to work toward eliminating the health and education disparities affecting Latino communities in Denver, in Colorado, and beyond.
