

SUGGESTED READINGS

Please Note: The Suggested Readings are listed below in an unconventional citation format intended to assist the reader in remote field locations to be able to order the book or periodical directly from the publisher, if necessary. For those field programs with access to a library or located near a town with a bookstore, the information presented below should be sufficient to order the books. In a few cases, specific mailing addresses for the publisher are not listed in the source book itself, and are not included in full in the Suggested Readings.

Articles and Books have been selected as suggested readings according to several criteria. Summary books and articles published recently contain bibliographies that will help the clinician or administrator to explore the subject of interest in detail. In other cases, articles by major figures in a particular area of study are included as an introduction to their more comprehensive work. Although most of the books and articles included in the Suggested Readings support the points made in this monograph, some articles with which the author does not agree are included for completeness.
